FEDERAL BUREAU OF INVESTIGATION

Date of transcription 6/13/91

PHILIP CARUSO, President, Patrolmen's Benevolent Association of the City of New York, was interviewed at his office located at 250 Broadway, New York, New York 10007-2580, telephone number (212) 233-5531, by Special Agent (SA) [redacted] of the Federal Bureau of Investigation (FBI) and SA [redacted], Internal Revenue Service (IRS). CARUSO was advised of the identities of the interviewing Agents and it was explained to him that the FBI and the IRS were involved in an ongoing Public Corruption investigation of New York City [redacted]. In this regard, CARUSO was told that it had been learned that the Political Action Committees of various New York City area law enforcement benevolent associations had made substantial monetary contributions to the [redacted] Campaign Fund "Friends of [redacted]" and a separate fund called the "Seventh District Council Committee Fund." CARUSO provided the following information:

CARUSO advised that the Political Action Committee (PAC) of the Patrolmen's Benevolent Association of the City of New York had made several campaign contributions to [redacted]. CARUSO said the contributions were made to [redacted] because he was perceived as a politician who consistently backed law enforcement efforts.

CARUSO could not recall specifically how checks had been provided to [redacted] in the past, but he said that generally the Patrolmen's Benevolent Association's PAC receives fliers from numerous politicians asking for campaign contributions. The PAC then decides which politicians they will support/endorse and an appropriate check, drawn on the PAC account, is then provided to the politician. These checks are generally made out to the politician's campaign fund. However, CARUSO could not recall exactly how the checks to [redacted] were drafted.

CARUSO did not recall [redacted] ever personally soliciting contributions on behalf of [redacted]. As additional information, CARUSO cannot recall ever being personally solicited for campaign contributions by [redacted] nor does he remember ever attending a party for [redacted] at any time.
